

ENGLISH FOR VOCATIONAL PURPOSES

FINAL PROJECT

Video Production Assignment

Group size	4–5 students per group
Video duration	5–15 minutes
Video Orientation	Portrait (9:16) or Landscape (16:9)
Subtitles	English or Indonesian (optional)
Video Size	Maximum 1GB
Video Format	.mp4
Pre-production	Storyboard presentation before filming
Topics covered	Small talk, vacancy ads, CV writing, job interview

Project Overview

This final project asks each group to produce a video (5–15 minutes) that integrates all four topics studied in this course. The video should demonstrate your understanding of professional English in a work or internship context:

- (1) reading job advertisements,
- (2) preparing a CV or resume,
- (3) engaging in small talk at work, and
- (4) performing well in a job or internship interview.

Each group will first present their storyboard or concept to the class before filming begins. This presentation is a required step — it serves as your planning checkpoint and allows you to receive feedback before investing time in production.

Why a video project?

Video production requires you to do much more than memorise phrases. You must plan, write dialogue, perform under pressure, listen and respond naturally, and reflect on how professional English sounds in real use. These are exactly the skills you will need in an actual interview or workplace.

Grading criteria

Criterion	Weight	Notes
Language accuracy	30%	Vocabulary, Grammar, Pronunciation
Content	40%	Accuracy, Creativity, and Production quality
Storyboard presentation quality	15%	Clarity, completeness, Q&A
Collaboration and role fulfilment	15%	Peer evaluation included

Pre-Production: Storyboard Presentation

Before your group begins filming, you must present your storyboard or concept to the class. This is a graded requirement, not optional. You can create a PPT, a mind map, or other visual aids for your presentation.

Duration10–15 minutes per group, including Q&A from peers and the teacher

What your presentation must include

- Your chosen topic and the reason your group selected it
- A scene-by-scene or shot-by-shot storyboard (drawn on paper, slides, or a digital tool)
- The full dialogue script for at least one complete scene
- A video structure in the form of a table showing which topic you cover
- A clear list of roles and each member's responsibilities

Storyboard template

Use or adapt the template below for each scene in your video:

Scene #	Setting / location	Characters	Topic covered	Key language / phrases

OPTION 1

The Complete Journey: From Job Ad to First Morning

A documentary-style video following one main character — the applicant — through every stage of the professional journey: finding a vacancy, preparing a CV, arriving and making small talk, performing in the interview, and starting the first day on the job. This is the most structured of the three topics and is suitable for groups of mixed proficiency levels, since each student can take ownership of one module.

Best for

Mixed proficiency groups; students who prefer a clear, linear narrative

Video structure

Segment	Duration	Content	Topic Covered
Opening	0:30	Narrator introduction — who is the character, what is the goal	—
Scene 1	1:30	Character finds a vacancy ad online; narrator reads key phrases aloud and annotates them on screen	Vacancy advertisements
Scene 2	2:00	Character writes their CV; screen-recording or paper close-up with voiceover explaining each section	CV / resume writing
Scene 3	0:45	Character arrives at the office; greets the receptionist and makes small talk while waiting	Small talk
Scene 4	3:00	Full job interview — opening, strengths/weaknesses, situational questions, closing	Job interview
Scene 5	0:45	Character's first morning: greets colleagues, small talk at the coffee machine	Small talk
Closing	0:30	Narrator recap of key language used throughout the video	—

Group roles (5 students)

Role	Responsibilities
Director / editor	Manages shooting plan, coordinates scenes, assembles and edits footage
Lead actor (applicant)	Appears in every scene; must demonstrate professional English in all four module contexts
Supporting actor(s)	Plays receptionist, interviewer, and/or office colleague across scenes
Scriptwriter	Writes all dialogue and narration; ensures language accuracy across all modules
Narrator / annotator	Records voiceover; creates on-screen text overlays highlighting key language

Templates and materials needed

- A sample job vacancy advertisement (you provide as a prop or on-screen slide)
- A CV template for the character — students fill this in as part of the project
- A list of 5–7 interview questions appropriate to the chosen vacancy
- A small talk phrase bank — students must visibly use at least 4 phrases from it on camera

Storyboard example — Scene 3: Small talk in the waiting area

The following is an example of how to write a storyboard entry for this scene:

SCENE 3 — Waiting area, modern office reception

Applicant enters. Receptionist looks up and smiles.

Receptionist : "Good morning! You must be here for the interview."

Applicant : "Yes, I am — it's a pleasure to be here. It's quite a nice building."

Receptionist : "Thank you! Please take a seat. Can I get you some water?"

Applicant : "Yes, please. Thank you very much."

On-screen annotation: Making a positive first impression — use neutral, polite topics only. Avoid salary, personal complaints, or controversial subjects.

OPTION 2

Dos and Don'ts: An Instructional Guide

A hosted tutorial structured like an Instagram or TikTok how-to video. A presenter introduces each topic (small talk, job vacancy, writing CV, job interview), then two actors demonstrate the wrong approach — played for instruction and contrast — followed by the correct approach. This format is effective for teaching because it shows the consequences of common mistakes before modelling the ideal behaviour. It suits groups with stronger actors who enjoy performance and humour.

Best for	Groups with confident speakers; students who enjoy performance and comedy
----------	---

Video structure

Segment	Duration	Content	Topic Covered
Host intro	0:30	Welcome — "Today we show you everything you should and should not do when applying for a job."	—
Unit 1	1:30	Wrong: ignores requirements, applies blindly. Right: annotates the ad, matches skills to criteria.	Vacancy ads
Unit 2	2:00	Wrong: misspellings, wrong photo, no structure. Right: clean template, tailored summary, accurate dates.	CV writing
Unit 3	1:30	Wrong: awkward silence, inappropriate topics (salary, complaints). Right: neutral warm topics, active listening.	Small talk
Unit 4	3:00	Wrong: late, unprepared, rambling answers. Right: professional, structured STAR answers, asks questions.	Job interview
Host closing	0:30	Quick recap of all key points — "Now you know what to do, and what never to do."	—

Group roles (4–5 students)

Role	Responsibilities
Host / presenter	Speaks directly to camera between units; introduces each contrast pair; highest language demand
Actor A ("wrong" candidate)	Comic but instructive performance — mistakes must be clearly recognizable, not just exaggerated
Actor B ("right" candidate)	Composed, professional, demonstrates model language use in each unit
Scriptwriter / researcher	Writes all scenes; compiles the Dos and Don'ts checklist; ensures accuracy of professional norms
Director / editor	Can be merged with scriptwriter for a group of 4. Manages filming and post-production.

Notes: Actor A and actor B can be the same person with a different personality.

Templates and materials needed

- A 'What not to do' checklist — students create this from course materials and display it on screen
- A model answers script for the 5 most common interview questions
- A CV marked with errors — shown on camera, then corrected in the 'right' version
- A corrected CV template — compared side-by-side or in sequence

Storyboard example — Unit 3: Small talk (wrong and right versions)

UNIT 3 — Wrong version

Candidate sits next to interviewer in the waiting area.

Candidate (Actor A): "So... how much does this job pay?"

Interviewer looks visibly uncomfortable. Silence.

On-screen text: X Avoid: salary, personal complaints, controversial topics.

UNIT 3 — Right version

Same setting. Candidate enters and sits down calmly.

Candidate (Actor B): "It's a lovely office. Have you been in this building long?"

Interviewer: "About two years — we moved here from downtown."

On-screen text: ✓ Try: neutral observations, light questions about the environment or company.

OPTION 3

Two Worlds: Comparing Internship Culture

A research-based, analytical video that compares how the same professional stages play out differently in an Indonesian workplace context versus a Western or international company context. Groups examine how CV formats, interview styles, small-talk norms, and vacancy-ad language differ between the two settings. This is the most academically demanding topic and is best suited to advanced students who want to develop intercultural competence alongside language skills.

Best for	Advanced students; groups interested in research, analysis, and cross-cultural comparison

Video structure

Segment	Duration	Content	Topic Covered
Host intro	0:45	Sets up the comparison — "same goal, different culture, different language expectations"	—
Comparison 1	1:30	Side-by-side: Indonesian vacancy ad vs. international English ad. Different conventions: photo, religion, age, language register.	Vacancy ads
Comparison 2	2:00	Indonesian biodata format (personal details, photo, religion) vs. international CV format (no photo, skills-focused, results-driven).	CV writing
Comparison 3	3:00	Parallel interviews — one more formal/hierarchical, one more conversational. Different opening questions, turn-taking, and closing rituals.	Job interview
Comparison 4	1:30	Small talk topics that differ culturally — family and personal questions acceptable in one context, not the other. Silence norms.	Small talk
Host closing	0:45	Key takeaways for students entering international workplaces — what to adapt, what stays the same.	—

Group roles (5 students)

Role	Responsibilities
Host / narrator	Presents both sides with commentary; explains cultural differences clearly in English ; highest language demand in the group
Indonesian context actor(s)	Performs scenes in the Indonesian professional setting — interview, small talk, CV presentation; may use some Indonesian with English subtitles
International context actor(s)	Performs parallel scenes in the international/Western professional setting; formal English throughout
Researcher / fact-checker	Gathers data on cultural norms in both contexts; compiles the comparison table; provides sources or references
Director / editor	Ensures visual clarity of comparisons; manages split-screens, labels, and transitions between the two contexts

Templates and materials needed

- Two real or sample vacancy advertisements — one in Indonesian format, one in international English format
- Two CV templates — Indonesian biodata-style and international skills-focused format
- A side-by-side comparison table completed by the research student during the planning phase
- Cultural notes handout — provided by the instructor or researched and cited by students

Storyboard example — Comparison 3: Interview style

COMPARISON 3 — Interview style (split screen or sequential scenes)

Indonesian context:

Interviewer (formal): "Boleh diceritakan tentang diri Anda?"

*On-screen label: Personal information and family context are expected and welcome.

International context:

Interviewer (conversational): "Tell me about yourself — focus on your professional experience."

*On-screen label: Skills, achievements, and professional identity are prioritized.

Host voiceover: "Both are valid opening questions — but they signal very different expectations about what matters in a professional introduction."
